

Corporate Security Consulting and Training

Helping you prepare for the unexpected

InDev Tactical¹ (InDev) provides security training and consulting services tailored to meet your company's specific needs. Our training improves staff situational awareness, and prepares your workforce to respond effectively to the unexpected while remaining safe during the critical first minutes of an event. InDev consulting helps clients protect life and property, improve coordination with emergency response teams, and manage crisis.

What is the InDev difference? Our unique fusion of combat honed security skills combined with our intimate knowledge of American corporate culture, allows InDev to adapt the security and emergency response techniques refined in the hills of Afghanistan to the needs of our US clientele.

InDev consultants are security experts with in-depth knowledge of security program application in business environments. Jim Willis, CEO, is a Certified Master Anti-Terrorism Specialist and *Homeland Security Expert*², and a sought-after security expert and speaker. Jim used his corporate background combined with his security expertise to develop ASSIST[®], InDev's proprietary active shooter and violence prevention training series.
